

April 3, 2020

Colleagues,

As this pandemic continues to impact our lives here and around the world, due to your incredible work and unparalleled commitment to students, today we have completed two weeks of remote teaching and learning. The task that you have accomplished in a small amount of time is beyond belief.

I am not surprised but am certainly amazed by your tireless efforts and energy that have made continuity of instruction possible for nearly 20,000 students during this crisis.

I hope you and your families are doing well. I am confident the research being done today, building on the advancement in science over the last two decades, will yield good results. Until this happens, hopeful soon, we have each other — let us continue to show करुणा (KARUNA: Sanskrit word for compassion) towards each other.

Thank you.

with appreciation

Sanjay.