

Literary and Arts Anthology by Students with Disabilities

Do you enjoy writing poems, stories, or personal narratives?

Are you skilled in drawing, painting, sculpture, or cartoons?

Would you like to craft a memoir but need some help along the way?

If so, please consider participating in this upcoming publication.

The submissions deadline is September 30, 2021, but students are encouraged to submit during the spring and summer months.

We welcome work by MC students with a broad range of disabilities: physical, emotional, mental, learning, or sensory impairments of any kind or degree. While writers and artists certainly may craft pieces expressing their experiences of living with a disability, this is not required. Submissions may be about any topic!

Writing submissions may take two forms:

- Finished pieces (requiring minimal editing).
- Pitches (for which students describe an idea for an essay or memoir and, if accepted, work with an editor to develop their piece).

Due to space limitations, not all submissions may be accepted. Students are welcome to submit multiple pieces for consideration!
