Project Name: Writing in the Disciplines

Project Director: Rita Kranidis

Final Update:

The Fall 06 semester was the first semester of full programming for Writing in the Disciplines.

The featured outside speaker, Dr. Zawacki, who leads one of the strongest WAC/WID programs in the country, delivered a public address and also led a faculty workshop. Six workshops delivered in cooperation with the Writing and Reading Centers at the three campuses focused on topics such as creating effective assignments, grading and evaluating student writings, and using informal writing to teach course content.

This semester also featured an online faculty forum through MyMC Groups for faculty interested in discussing writing with colleagues.

All events are open to part-time and full-time instructors, who demonstrate a strong interest in finding solutions to some common goals on student writing in their courses.
