

August 31, 2006

Dawn Avery
Professor of Music
Montgomery College
51 Mannakee St
Rockville, MD 20850

Heroes come in all sizes and shapes. From a doctor who works 10-hour shifts to immunize children in refugee camps...to a UNICEF field worker who digs wells to provide clean water...

...to a hero like you who helped raise precious, life-saving funds in our 2005 Trick-or-Treat for UNICEF campaign!

Thanks to you and your organization, the U.S. Fund for UNICEF 2005 Campaign generated nearly $5 million – vital funds that are being put to work providing life-saving supplies and emergency aid to children struggling to survive ...

...including thousands of children here in America whose lives were affected by the devastation of Hurricane Katrina.

Over the years, millions of American children, their parents, teachers, and youth group leaders have come to the aid of vulnerable children by supporting Trick-or-Treat for UNICEF. This year, we were pleased to have returned the favor by helping our friends and neighbors who have lost their homes, their communities, and possibly their loved ones to the devastating hurricanes.

To show our thanks for your fundraising efforts, we're pleased to recognize you as an honorary U.S. Fund for UNICEF Ambassador for your role in helping UNICEF continue to provide emergency services, relief, and counseling to children around the world.

(over)

I'm proud to enclose a Certificate of Appreciation for your support, along with the enclosed Trick-or-Treat for UNICEF Plaque that can be proudly displayed in your trophy case or entryway to recognize the efforts you, your students, youth group members or friends put forth to raise much-needed funds for children around the world.

The gifts that you generated are already hard at work protecting children who survived the earthquake in Pakistan...

...providing lifesaving food, clean water, medical supplies and shelter to children and families in refugee camps in Darfur, Sudan, and other conflict-torn regions around the world...

...immunizing millions of children against deadly diseases...

...and providing hope to families as we help build a world fit for children.

Thank you again for being a true world hero by supporting the 2005 Trick-or-Treat for UNICEF Campaign!

Best wishes,

Charles J. Lyons
President, U.S. Fund for UNICEF