

OFFICE OF EQUITY AND INCLUSION

Montgomery College English and Reading

Department's Minority Faculty Internship Program (MCMFI)

November 5, 2020

3:30pm - 4:30pm

Register here: <http://bit.ly/MCMFlevent>

Dr. Rodney Redmond, Instructional Dean of English and Reading, and Dr. Elizabeth Benton, Professor of English and Program Director of MCMFI, joined by Professor William Martin, MCMFI Intern 2020 and Professor Ellwood Johnson, MCMFI Intern 2021, will present their experiences with the Montgomery College English and Reading Department's Minority Faculty Internship Program (MCMFI). Through competitive processes each year, graduate students have been awarded the internship that involves teaching at the college level; participating in professional development; and completing scholarly writing, research and conference presentations. Facilitators will share literature on minority faculty at the community college; the process for developing the internship; the facets of the program; and individual and shared lived experiences as colleagues in this successful and rewarding internship program.

