NAMING THE INSTITUTE FOR RACE, JUSTICE, AND CIVIC ENGAGEMENT

BACKGROUND

As a community college with a very diverse student body, some of whom lack academic preparedness or financial means, Montgomery College has made the decision to put enormous efforts into creating an environment whereby students can succeed, as evidenced by the creation of the Achieving the Promise Academy. However, there is more required of us than providing academic and financial resources to students in our current environment. Students are asking to be engaged at the College and in their community at a deeper level. They are looking for the opportunity to share their stories, to ask difficult questions, to lead efforts, and to define themselves in their own terms. The Institute for Race, Justice, and Civic Engagement will provide a unique opportunity for students to develop their public voice as engaged members of their community.

Within this context, the new Institute will provide supplemental opportunities for students to connect with the community and the College through service learning opportunities. The new Institute will inspire and motivate discussion and engagement, by providing students with a physical space to work towards their goals. The Institute for Race, Justice, and Civic Engagement will house a food and clothing pantry, a social justice library, and access to additional resources to support student needs.

RECOMMENDATION

In recognition of addressing the needs of our student body, it is recommended that the Board of Trustees approve the proposed resolution to name the Institute for Race, Justice, and Civic Engagement.

BACKGROUND

With almost four decades of experience in health sciences and higher education, Dean Angela “Angie” Pickwick’s leadership of Health Sciences has reflected a model for other programs in terms of curriculum development, community outreach, and career preparation. Throughout her tenure, accrediting agencies have recognized the extraordinary quality of the credit and workforce development programs that she has overseen.

Dean Pickwick has been instrumental in advocacy and philanthropy to sustain and enhance the health sciences and physical education programs. Her efforts led to the creation of the Nursing Simulation Lab and the provision of the latest medical technology through public and private grants. It has also led to numerous health sciences and nursing scholarships for credit and workforce development students.

Dean Pickwick has a long history of service to the College and the community, playing a critical role in the College’s partnerships with health care institutions such as Adventist Healthcare, Holy Cross Health, and the Healthcare Initiative Foundation. She has served as the founding co-chair of the Holy Cross Health-Montgomery College Steering Committee. She has actively participated in the Maryland Healthcare Workforce Initiative, the Latino Health Initiative, the Montgomery County Healthcare Workforce Consortium, and Community Advisory Board for NBC4.

NAMING OF ROOM 206 IN THE CAMPUS CENTER, ROCKVILLE CAMPUS
IN HONOR OF PROFESSOR JANET SAROS

BACKGROUND

For 36 years, Janet Saros served Montgomery College with dedication and distinction as a full-time professor of hospitality management. She has directed the Marriott Hospitality Center since its inception, supervised the Center’s activities, and chaired the Management Department for four years. She maintained relationships with the leaders of the J. Willard and Alice S. Marriott Foundation, resulting in more than two million dollars in programmatic and scholarship support over her tenure with the program. This support led to scholarships that enabled dozens of hospitality management majors to pursue their career and higher education dreams, with more than 200 transferring to four-year institutions since 1998. Her critical role with the J. Willard and Alice S. Marriott Foundation grants led to the partnership between Montgomery College and the University of Maryland-Eastern Shore at the Universities of Shady Grove, providing hundreds of students with a seamless pathway to associate’s and baccalaureate degrees in hospitality management. Her work with grants and philanthropy transformed the well-regarded hospitality program into one of the premier programs of its kind at the community college level.

Professor Saros displayed strong leadership in many ways. She marketed the hospitality program; hosted conferences and receptions; facilitated the Marriott Hospitality College Area Review; managed grant funding; directed scholarship awards; represented the Center at community events; advised the Hospitality Management Club and Phi Theta Kappa; revised the Hospitality Management AAS degree; organized the Advising Open House for current and prospective hospitality management majors; oversaw the use of the Marriott Hospitality Center kitchen by Phi Theta Kappa; planned teambuilding-through-cooking workshops for the College’s Board of Trustees and other groups; and convened the Hospitality Program Advisory Committee that supports student transfers from the College to the Hospitality and Tourism Management Program at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore, Shady Grove Campus, among other activities.

She served on governance, discipline, and other College committees, including the Rockville Faculty Council, Rockville Campus Academic Appeals Committee, and General Studies—Social Science, Administration, and Health Core Committee. Professor Saros also participated in many professional group activities, some of which involved leadership roles and public speaking.

Professor Saros's accomplishments and contributions were acknowledged with an Outstanding Faculty Award, an Excellence Award from the National Institute for Staff and Organizational Development, and honorary induction into Phi Beta Kappa. A skilled and enthusiastic instructor, she modeled effective teaching and created many student professional development activities.
RECOMMENDATION

In recognition of Professor Janet Saros’s outstanding contributions to her discipline, campus, and college, it is recommended that the Board of Trustees approve the proposed resolution to name the Rockville Campus Center’s Room 206 as the Janet Saros Classroom.

MONTGOMERY COLLEGE
Rockville, Maryland

Agenda Item Number: 10A
December 10, 2018

CREATION OF THE POLYSOMNOGRAPHY (SLEEP MEDICINE) TECHNOLOGY
ASSOCIATE OF APPLIED SCIENCE DEGREE

BACKGROUND

Montgomery College is prepared to offer the polysomnography (sleep medicine) technology associate of applied science (AAS) degree. Polysomnography is a diagnostic test that measures and records a patient’s physiologic variables during sleep. Polysomnographic technologists, also known as sleep medicine technologists, perform sleep studies to assist physicians in the diagnosis and treatment of sleep disorders.

According to the Centers for Disease Control, 70 million Americans suffer from chronic sleep problems. Lack of sleep is associated with injuries, chronic diseases, mental illnesses, poor quality of life and well-being, increased health care costs, and lost work productivity. Montgomery College strives to counteract the effects of poor sleep health by preparing students for careers in the growing field of sleep medicine technology and emphasizing the College’s mission of empowering our students to change their lives and enriching our community.

Montgomery College’s new polysomnography (sleep medicine) technology AAS will provide a strong foundation for students in sleep medicine technology by recognizing mastery of vocational-technical occupational skills. The program is designed for students pursuing entry-level positions in the field, practicing polysomnographic technologists, and individuals completing didactic studies and supervised clinical practice to meet the requirements of the Maryland State Legislature for licensure as a polysomnographic technologist. This state licensure is administered by the Board of Registered Polysomnographic Technologists.

Professional organizations in health care management are exploring an AAS as the minimum education requirement for certification, state licensure, and employment. As such, Montgomery College’s program will prepare students with the requisite skills and content to succeed in four-year programs in health care management and the state credentialing examination. The new AAS is in addition to Montgomery College’s polysomnography technology certificate, which is already accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Allied Health Education Programs (CAAHEP).

RECOMMENDATION

It is recommended that the Board of Trustees approve the creation of the associate of applied science degree in polysomnography (sleep medicine) technology and that an application for approval be submitted to the Maryland Higher Education Commission.

CREATION OF THE HOMELAND SECURITY CERTIFICATE

Due to the events of September 11, 2001, the United States Department of Labor predicts that the employment of security management personnel will grow faster than all other occupations due to the threat of terrorism. Concerning threats to property and persons in our country will continue to grow in the years ahead, and trends clearly demonstrate increased demand in all aspects of intelligence analysis, information security, infrastructure protection, physical security, and law enforcement.

In response to the increased demand for personnel knowledgeable in the nation’s growing homeland security needs and issues, Montgomery College is prepared to offer the Homeland Security Certificate. The certificate is designed to instruct students on how to secure borders, airports, waterways, and seaports; prepare for and respond to natural and man-made disasters; provide counterterrorism and intelligence support; and employ the latest security technology. In addition to providing students with a broad understanding of safety and security issues, the Homeland Security Certificate focuses on several vital components of the homeland security field: critical infrastructure protection, disaster preparedness, and response and intelligence operations. Individuals working in homeland security anticipate, prepare for, prevent, and react to everything from pandemics to hurricanes to terrorism. This workforce reduces the nation’s vulnerabilities and minimizes the damage from catastrophic events.

The Homeland Security Certificate offers students an overview to the nation’s homeland security environment through an all-hazards approach. The curriculum consists of 18 credit hours with coursework in emergency management, intelligence and counter-intelligence, terrorism, critical infrastructure protection, and border security.

RECOMMENDATION

It is recommended that the Board of Trustees approve the creation of the Homeland Security Certificate and that an application for approval be submitted to the Maryland Higher Education Commission.
