April 6, 2020 Welcome to another week of teaching, learning, and working at Montgomery College

Good morning. Welcome to another week of teaching, learning, and working at Montgomery College. You will notice that I didn't say "remote" because, as I'm sure you know, this is our new normal. We are working diligently to help students with urgent financial insecurity and some instances of extraordinary generosity are enabling that support. We need everyone to be counted, now, more than ever. Have a good week.
