Tutorial 1 – Accessing the Auto Captions

The following instructions will guide you on how to access the Automatic Captions for your video. This tutorial focuses only on how to access the captions screen. Google Chrome was used for this tutorial.

To access the Automatic Captions for any of your videos, select the video you want to view the auto captions by clicking on the video icon.

You will see the Video Details screen. On the left-hand menu, select Subtitles.

You will be taken to the Video Subtitles screen. If your video has the automatic captions generated, under Subtitles, it will say Automatic.

| Video subtitles          |              |                         | Ŷ                      |
|--------------------------|--------------|-------------------------|------------------------|
| Language                 | Modified on  | Title & description     | Subtitles              |
| English (video language) | Jan 29, 2020 | Publishedby Creator | PublishedAutomatic |
|                          |              |                         |                        |

NOTE: If you don't see an English caption file for your video, YouTube might not have generated a caption file for your video. Make sure your video is not too long, the audio is not too low, and not too many speakers are speaking over each other. Most of the time, if your audio is clear and the runtime for the video is short, then you will have a caption file generated for your video.

To access the Automatic Captions, put your mouse cursor over the words Published/Automatic. You will see three dots appear next to the text.

Click on the dots and then select Edit on Classic Studio.
