Message from the President

DeRionne P. Pollard, Ph.D.

I am proud of the meticulous analysis that went into drafting the MC2025 plan. It was the product of countless dialogues and tireless collaborative work by the College’s range of essential stakeholders. As you know, the initial plan was crafted before the pandemic changed many of the realities of instruction, operations, and finances at the College. Our planning team is aware that we have to reorient in light of these significant changes and that process is already in motion.

This operations plan represents our attempts to reassert and reprioritize while remaining faithful to the values in the original plan and continuing to advance the mission of the College. The College will continue to look to its Board of Trustees for guidance on the principles that inform these priorities. My Senior Administrative Leadership Team is deeply engaged in outlining the implementation steps for the changes as they evolve.

We recognize that some goals may have to be reprioritized while others may be delayed. Nevertheless, the MC2025 plan will continue to align with the master plans that have been crafted by Academic Affairs and Student Affairs, our goals in Achieving the Dream, and the accreditation requirements of the Middle States Commission on Higher Education. As always, the College is moving toward achievements that are anchored in our vision of students’ empowerment and our commitment to community enrichment. These aims will not change, even as we adapt nimbly to the circumstance that surrounds us. I continue to be inspired by the commitment of MC employees and supporters to push ahead with our goals, reimagined with new—and perhaps enlightened—visions of our future.

Ensuring success for all students and building the talent pipeline of tomorrow will require an innovative approach, more deeply rooted equity-minded practices, and the alignment of fiscal strategies with our plan.

Background and Rationale

Most strategic plans require some form of organizational change—why craft a strategic plan if you want everything in the future to be the same as everything in the past? The impetus for this change can come from external and internal forces, both positive and negative. The events of early 2020 have forced us, as an institution, to reshape and reframe how the College will go about actualizing the MC2025 Strategic Plan. The world is a different place since this plan was approved in June 2019, and as a result of these changes, it is imperative that we accelerate some priorities and re-examine the focus of others.

Many institutions were not as well-prepared as the College to move into the digital space. Some have questioned whether the explosion of remote learning—which may be primitive and of dubious rigor and quality—in the midst of the worldwide pandemic, has the potential to affect attitudes and impressions of this mode of learning that has struggled to gain widespread faculty and student support, or if can meet the needs of the most vulnerable learners. Moreover, the early days of the pandemic and shift to remote teaching, learning, and work exposed the need to move from a disability compliance mindset to embracing universal design as part of our philosophy of radical inclusion. Therefore, it is imperative that the College accelerate its work and leverage the experience and expertise of our faculty and staff to make the virtual classroom replicate the face-to-face experience for our students, with strong student support systems and the preservation of academic rigor and relevance.

In anticipation of implementing MC2025, the College and Board of Trustees have been deeply engaged in a conversation about the changing nature of work and the impact of technology—from the use of robots to clean our buildings to what and how we teach. What will this mean for our students and us as an institution in the post-knowledge world? The recent shift to remote learning and working necessitates a new kind of workforce—and that is equipped, trained, and skilled to meet the needs of students wherever they may be, and to ensure the efficient continuity of operations in both the physical and digital space.

[Lederman, Doug. “Will Shift to Remote Teaching be a Boon or Bane to Online Learning?” Inside Higher Education. March 16, 2020 (insidehighered.com/digital-learning/article/2020/03/18/most-teaching-going-remote-will-help-or-hurt-online-learning).]
MC2025 is more than an institutional document and not an end in itself, therefore the College has been actively engaged in developing an agile and responsive operational plan. During the 2019 fall semester, the Office of the President established and convened two teams—the MC2025 Data Team and the MC2025 Implementation Team.

The MC2025 Implementation Team’s scope of work was to ensure alignment and integration between the Academic Master Plan, the Student Affairs Master Plan, all other institutional supporting plans, and the MC2025 Strategic Plan. The resulting alignment provides a framework for budget allocations and assessment. The major tasks of the Implementation Team process were to:

• Anticipate, identify, and articulate future trends, challenges, and opportunities.
• Ensure that college master plans, supporting plans, and priorities are aligned with the MC2025 Strategic Plan.
• Anticipate, identify, and articulate future trends, challenges, and opportunities.
• Ensure that all master plans and supporting plans respond to the current and future educational needs of the community and advances College goals as a comprehensive community college.
• Determine accountability, authority, responsibility, and tools to track plan alignment.
• Keep the College informed, through discussions at critical junctures, about institutional progress toward aligning the goals and objectives of the various institutional plans.

The MC2025 Data Team’s scope of work was to review the MC2025 Score Card, develop and confirm the indicators for each score card variable, and establish reasonable benchmarks that will allow the tracking of progress for each goal. The resulting benchmarks will provide a framework for assessing progress on the MC2025 Strategic Plan and ensure alignment with other established institutional assessment benchmarks. The major tasks of the Data Team process were to:

• Ensure that the MC2025 Score Card has thoughtful and relevant benchmarks.
• Ensure that each benchmark has reasonable leading indicators that are relevant and support frequent measurements of progress.
• Anticipate, identify, and articulate future trends, challenges, and opportunities.
• Ensure alignment with other institutional assessment benchmarks and external outcome requirements and expectations.

Montgomery College is committed to the development and implementation of a strategic plan that guides decision-making and budget allocations. In June 2018, the Board of Trustees produced a document entitled Beyond MC2020: Strategic Planning Charge to the President, which articulated a vision for the College’s next strategic plan. According to the document, the board’s role is to establish broad goals in planning, and then to charge the president with developing the plan in a collaborative and inclusive process.

There is much from the past that the College can and should build on, which is especially relevant as the College continues the important work that began with Montgomery College 2020. With this in mind, Montgomery College 2025 is grounded in a set of new imperatives—A.I.M.:

• Amplify institutional practices that contribute to student success.
• Integrate our systems and processes to ensure seamless, equitable experiences.
• Measure our progress at every step to ensure relevance and responsiveness.

Montgomery College 2025 and the operational plan focuses on sustaining momentum on initiatives that demonstrate success and can or should be brought to scale. The plan:

• Strategically amplifies these successes and the lessons learned;

• Aligns and integrates the activities and strategies of the Academic Master Plan, the Student Affairs Master Plan, Achieving the Dream initiatives, and the Middle States Self-Study suggestions and recommendations—filtered through the lenses of excellence, rigor, and equity; and

• Focuses on developing a renewed culture of evidence in which transparency, continuous improvement, and empowerment through data has residence in all College activities.

Ensuring success for all students and building the talent pipeline of tomorrow will require an innovative approach, more deeply rooted equity-minded practices, and the alignment of fiscal strategies with our plan. As a result, as we close out the College’s current strategic plan, the Board prioritized fiscal restraint. Instead of new significant initiatives, the first year of the MC2025 Strategic Plan is focused on amplifying those things that are working, integrating College efforts and activities in a more holistic way, maximizing existing resources to protect affordable tuition, offering additional scholarships, and investing strategically in our employees.

The speed of change and the fluid needs of business and industry, including higher education, will demand that we change not only how and what we teach, but also how we recruit, onboard, and support both students and employees. Implementing flexible options, asynchronous learning, and institutional agility are the new normal. Montgomery College will lead the way.

MC2025 Implementation Framework

The president’s Senior Administrative Leadership Team (SALT) serves as the steering committee who will manage the implementation of MC2025. In the operational plan, which guides implementation, each senior vice president (SVP) is working collaboratively with a member of SALT, and the assigned leaders will work together to achieve each objective. SALT has developed the priority and sequence for each objective and will liaise with the Board of Trustee’s Strategic Planning Assessment Committee. SVPs will utilize existing or establish, where necessary, Collegewide teams to:
• Implement objectives
• Develop strategies

Utilizing existing Collegewide teams, when possible and where the outcomes are aligned, will support the integration, sustainability, and achievement of the desired strategic outcomes in the implementation process. The lead SVPs will bring the recommendations to SALT to determine any changes or adjustments to the plan. The visual model for implementing the plan is presented in the graphic below indicating SALT’s role and the Collegewide team’s roles.

Collegewide Teams Implementation of MC2025 Plan

SALT as the steering committee will:
• Identify priority objectives and sequence
• Identify funds
• Monitor progress
• Liaise/lead/support Collegewide team members
• Liaise/support Board of Trustees Strategic Planning Assessment Committee

Identify Needs for Each Objective
• Cross-college teams meet
• Identify leaders and additional members for the team
• Identify resources needed
• Identify additional collaboration to achieve strategies and milestones

Action Plan in Place
• Milestones identified for first year
• Outcomes evaluated
• Revisions as needed
• New strategies as needed
• Celebrate success
• Develop milestones for subsequent years

Evaluation/Assessment
• Review Score Card metrics
• Determine success
• Revise as needed
• Repeat
SALT recommended the sequence of objectives, as indicated below, based on recommendations from the MC2025 Implementation Team. That team conducted a vertical and horizontal alignment within and across each goal to determine the appropriate sequence based on relationships among and across the objectives. Each objective has built-in times for research, piloting, and full-scale implementation.

MC Integrated Strategic Planning Framework

Student success is the heart of all planning at Montgomery. The College’s Strategic Plan, approved by the Board of Trustees, is the focal point for setting institutional planning and budgeting priorities. The goals and initiatives of the Academic Master Plan and the Student Affairs Master Plan are aligned with the College’s Strategic Plan and inform tactical planning in each division. In addition, there are several supporting plans aligned with the three guiding plans to provide the specific frameworks to implement institutional priorities.

ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

Board of Trustees

All planning activities at the College follow a four-step process: Prioritize, Align, Budget, and Assess. All priorities are established through the College Strategic Plan, the Academic Master Plan, and the Student Affairs Master Plan. All other activities and supporting plans are aligned with these institutional priorities and budgets are developed that reflect the established priorities. Finally, all activities are assessed on a continuing and routine basis to ensure successful achievement of institutional priorities and to set new priorities based on the data.
MC2025 SCORE CARD

SALT has recommended the MC2025 Score Card, indicated below, as the primary means by which the strategic plan will be assessed based on the recommendations of the MC2025 Data Team. That team conducted a vertical and horizontal alignment within and across each goal to determine the appropriate outcomes and indicators, ensuring that the measures were relevant and included a mix of both leading and lagging indicators to assess progress. Where possible, the Data Team sought to leverage existing institutional indicators that are aligned with external reporting requirements. The score card includes a mix of quarterly, semester, and annual indicators that will be reported to the College community on a routine and frequent basis.
